

Licensing

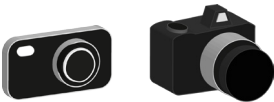

Royalty Free, Perpetual Licensing

We aim to provide customers with the license model that best suits their needs, supported with a transparent pricing policy. Our standard licensing model uses a royalty free, perpetual license. We have four standard levels of licensing.

Single Product License

Permits the use of the software in one specified product for one specified processor and compiler combination by a specified business unit/division of the customer.

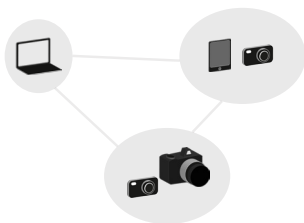

Product Line License

Permits the use of the software in a group of Products that are variants of the same Product development, for one specified processor and compiler combination by a specified business unit/division of the customer.

Multi Product License

Permits the use of the software in any product for one specified processor and compiler combination by a specified business unit/division of the customer.

Corporation License

Permits the use of the software in any product for one specified processor and compiler combination by any business unit/division of the customer.
